In the name of education

- Our University is the only one in the world named after Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela and we are incredibly proud to bear Madiba's name
- Mandela believed that education was a force of good and called on all South Africans to treasure knowledge and never stop learning. He valued diversity – especially the coming together of different minds, backgrounds, talents and approaches to achieve greatness
- Nelson Mandela dedicated his life to improving society and changing the world for the better, and as the university that uniquely carries his name, we are confident that we can do justice to his legacy
